

Abstract of the Disclosure

A magnetic recording apparatus suitable for high-density and high-frequency magnetic recording includes a recording head to the coil of which a recording current is supplied, the recording current having a waveform such that the conducting time length is shorter than the time length of a recording pattern.